Hog CHOLERA REMEDY .- C. W. Noyes of White Cloud. writes us that a preparation new to this section of country has lately been talked of as being a cure for the heg disease new so fatal to the hogs in many parts of the country. Some parties who possess the recipe, are asking $3 for it. Mr. Noyes has been active in his efforts to intro duce remedies for this disease, and sends us the new one so that, if there is any virtue in it, the farmers may have the benefit of it. The preparation is as follows:

He went to Colorado, last Spring, for the benefit of his health, but caught a severe cold, which brought on hemorrhage of the lungs. He returned home, and seemed to be improving; but he took cold again, while at the fair, last week, which started the hemorrhage anew, and he died, as stated. His mother was visiting, at the East, and was telegraphed to return. She arrived Monday, about an hour after her son's death. The deceased was a young man who was highly respected

He has two apples of the Gloria Mundi species, one of which weighs over a pound and a half, and the other is but little smaller. A lot of emigrants passed through town, last week. in wagons rigged up in dwelling style, for cooking, eating and sleeping. They were from Virginia, and bound for California. He says Doniphan County has made a better display than any fair he has attended this season; and that the apples on exhibition here were finer than any exhibited at the Centennial.

Mr. W. T. Wood, of Wolf River Township, was prevented from attending the Fair by important business calling him away; but he has deposited the apples which he intended to exhibit, in the Chief office. They are a fine lot, of popular varieties, and are entitled to rank among the best. Deniphan County beats the world for big apple

PIRE AT RIWOOD.—Edward Scarrey, well known in this city as "Uncle Ned," met with a serious loss on Sunday night, in the destruction by fire, of his home at Elwood, about a mile west of the St. Joe & D. C. R. R. resund hense. The fire was discovered at about midnight, and Mr. S. and family escaped from the building with only their night cities. The last person out was a son-in-law of Mr. S. who left the house just as the roof fell in. The fire was us-doubtedly the work of an incendiary, as a barrel of water which had been left standing near the house for use in case of fire, had been turned aver, and other precauti ons taken to make the job a success. Mr. S. has been sick for some time, and has received support from a Masonic Lodge in this city, of which he was a member. His loss is a serious one, and entities him to the hearty sympathy and assistance of his friends in this city.—St. Joe Gazette, 10th. Pure Cider Vinegar at Bickford & Sinclair's.
